

WESTERLY COUNCIL TAKES ACTION

Offers $500 Reward For Robber in Newall Case—Mr. Newall Offers a Like Amount—Over Eighty Attend Larkin Family Reunion—Local Participant in State Golf Tournament.

After a week of fruitless endeavor to capture the highwayman who relieved David McG. Newall of $1,200, the town council assembled Friday morning and offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension and detection of the robbers, which is the limit allowed by law. To this sum, Mr. Newall has added an equal amount, making a total reward of $1,000. There was a lively discussion in response to the assertion by Mr. Newall to the effect that the town council had shown a laxity of action in this case and that the police were handicapped by lack of provision to meet an emergency of this kind. Mr. Newall, while finding no fault with the action of the council, did not consider the system of adequate, and the result was a warning district among the people that was prejudicial to the best interests of the town. As a fair-minded taxpayer he was entitled to the serious consideration, as was any other citizen, of every man holding public position in respect to the town. He was certainly expected that the police were doing their best, but that their best under the present system was not satisfying to the people. The police seemed willing to do but they did not seem to have anything to do with.

On the day of the robbery and since Mr. Newall has paid from his private purse for automobile hire, telephone and telegraph messages and other expenses in an effort to locate the robbers, which he has done, it was felt that there was a lack in the management of the police department, which is under the direct supervision of the town council. He believed there should be a fund available to meet police expenses in any emergency, and that more prompt action on the part of the council, that would carry with it increased police activity. He stated that if reward was to be offered to encourage effort to capture the robbers that reward should have been offered before a whole week had elapsed.

Councilman Flynn explained that it was his intention to introduce the matter of offering a reward at the regular meeting last Tuesday, but as he had seen Mr. Newall and the town solicitor in conversation that morning he presumed that some other plan had been agreed upon.

Assurance was given Mr. Newall by the councilmen that the members of the council were desirous of doing all in their power to check lawlessness in Westerly and to safeguard the property and interests of the people. It was further explained that the town had always paid the bills for transportation, telephone and telegraph, and like expenses in the hunt for criminals, and that the case under consideration was no exception. It may be that owing to the sickness of the chief, that the deputy chief exercised discretion in the carrying of expense in this case, not being familiar with the liberality of the council in such matters, and perhaps doubtful whether bills incurred would receive unanimous approval and commendation.

There was considerable talk along that line and every member of the council had something to say on the subject. At the close of the discussion there was unanimity of opinion that the town offer the highest reward allowed by law, and then followed the passage of the following vote:

Voted, That the town council of Westerly, R. I., hereby offers a reward of $500 for the detection, apprehension and conviction of the persons, or any of them, committing the crime of robbery upon David McG. Newall, while on the highway near the village of Bradford, in the town of Westerly, on the second day of September, 1911.

Said reward to be paid to the person or persons entitled to same by the town treasurer of Westerly out of any funds of said town not otherwise specially appropriated; all in accordance with section 10 of chapter 10 of the general laws.

Mr. Newall then cheerfully offered a like reward and that the public announcement of the reward include the combined sum rather than have two separate reward notices issued, and that all information be given to John R. Wilcox, sheriff of Washington county, or to Thomas E. Brown, deputy chief of police.

The plan for the improvement of Pierce street was approved, and no other business was transacted at the meeting.

There has been some criticism of the police force in connection with this case, but the fact is not considered that two of the four members of the force, including the chief, are off duty by reason of sickness, leaving but two of the regular force to do night and day duty with special constables with no call. Still, just as soon as the robbery was reported, the acting chief with a posse went direct to Bradford, where the party was captured.

The Italian of Westerly are planning a big celebration on Columbus day.
